Some Small Straws
The Pope Speaks
Work for Farmers
Italy's Achievement

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

SMALL STRAWS blowing in an unpleasant direction are not important in themselves, but call for attention.

First a group of farmers in Arkansas entered stores, demanding food for their children.

Then came a not very serious march on the Newark city hall by policemen who called themselves reds.

Fifty Fifty were injured.

All this doesn't mean much among 120,000,000 people, but it does mean that any distribution of food or clothing, or arrangements for free lodging should be looked after by the government, efficiently if not at a job for a Red Cross, a Salvation Army or any other organization outside of the government.

THE ENCYCLICAL of Pope Pius issued in Vatican City yesterday, reaffirms Catholic doctrine concerning marriage, the first reaffirmation in 50 years.

Those practicing birth control, according to the Pope, are branded with the guilt of a grave crime, and abortions he calls murder. Marriage is indissoluble, and can not be broken for any reason whatever. Experimental or companionate marriage is absolutely condemned.

• • •

OPINIONS DIFFER on the surface of this small earth. The Lambeth conference of British bishops has approved, for instance, indorsed birth control under certain circumstances.

And some recently returned from Russia, report that in government hospitals there, abortions are performed by government surgeons free of charge, if a woman can prove that health or poverty makes the abortion necessary. And regardless of reasons, the operation is performed if the patient can pay for it.

It is difficult to believe that Russia would thus deliberately plan to diminish her population, when she is short of workers by 2,000,000 men. But the statement is made positively.

The pope's message of 16,000 words, written with great earnestness and no compromise whatever, includes this powerful sentence:

"The Catholic church, to whom God has intrusted the defense of the integrity and the purity of morals, stands erect in the midst of the moral ruins which surround her."

AN IMPORTANT proposition for unemployment relief, in which President Hoover is said to be interested, would use some of the money that the government will spend on improving country roads, connecting farms with great highways.

On such work farmers with their horses, plows and wagons could be profitably employed.

Highways need feeders in the shape of country roads leading to the farms, and farmers need access to highways. And they also need work.

Building great highways of concrete, reinforced with steel, is important. But that work gives no opportunity to farmers. Done by special machinery, heavy trucks, and a few workmen, it offers no opportunity to the average unemployed.

It is a good thing for government to build postoffices and other

CUT EXPENSE TO MEET CITY 1931 INCOME

Council Finance Committee Pares $50,000 from Estimated Expense.

STILL $32,781 TOO HIGH

Municipal Income Decreases While Cost of Operation Shows Increase.

The ax of elimination fell heavily on the 931 programs of every department of city government when the finance committee of council last night lopped $50,000 off 1931 budgets of department heads.

The cut was made as the finance committee and city officials sat in a second meeting in an effort to squeeze conservative 1931 budgets of department heads totaling $372,981 into the estimated income of $290,200 for the city this year.

Although a major portion of the $82,781 difference has been met by paring the department budgets $50,000, city officials and the finance committee still face a difficult task in reducing the budgets by another $32,781, officials said today.

This task will be attempted in another session of officials in the mayor's office Saturday afternoon, when the 1931 appropriation ordinance will be completed for presentation to council Monday night.

Fixed expenses, such as hydrant rentals, street light bills, and other items on the budget which increase each year with the expansion of the city, probably will get a severe setback when the appropriation ordinance is complete. Last night, officials appropriated sufficient funds to cover hydrant rentals for only a six month period. The appropriation for electric light bills was heavily cut.

Expenses Increase

Other items of equal importance were cut throughout the entire city government, and still further cuts remain to be made, officials say.

While the expenses of operating a growing city increased over last year, the tax income of the city for operating expenses took a backslide, with a 10 per cent reduction in the taxing valuations of lands in teh county and buildings in the city. Defeat of a one-mill levy at the election, asked by officials for operating expenses, still further impaired the 1931 program.

WILL SEEK RETURN OF STEEL BONUSES

Corporation Officials To Face Demand for Repayment of Millions.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9—An upshot of the Bethlehem Steel-Youngstown Sheet & Tube merger controversy appeared today in an announcement by a committee of Bethlehem minority stockholders that they would seek restitution of bonuses paid to Bethlehem officials.

The committee composed of Henry B. H. Ripley, Edwin D. Levinson, Samuel D. Hopkins and Benjamin M. Robinson, secretary. This group, as stockholders of the Co., received Bethlehem stock for part of the Midvale assets several years ago.

At a recent hearing of the injunction suit to prevent merger of Bethlehem Steel and Sheet & Tube, Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem, testified that he had received a bonus of $1,623,753 in 1929.

The minority committee statement said that bonuses "aggregating in excess of $36,000,000" had been paid chiefly to officers of the corporation who were also directors, and that the committee, after investigation, believed that the stockholders had "a meritorious claim for redress."

Orders Sandusky Man Held on Murder Charge

By the Associated Press.

SANDUSKY, O., Jan. 9—Carl E. Avery, 46, store proprietor at Birmingham, near here, was ordered arraigned today on a second degree murder charge in connection with the death of William Lambert, 60, his next-door neighbor.

The murder charge was lodged against Avery last night by Prosecutor Alvin F. Weichel after Coroner Paul N. Squire held that Lambert's death was due to a brain hemorrhage received in a fist fight with Avery. Authorities said Avery told them he administered the beating because Lambert, a retired farmer, had been too attentive to his wife.

FLIGHT REPORT FILED BY BALBO

Possible Loss of Three Planes Foreseen, Commander Says.

ADDRESSES MUSSOLINI

Tells of Getting Belated Report of Crash Over Radio.

By International News Service.

ROME, Jan. 9—The official report of General Italo Balbo, commander of the air fleet which flew from Italy to South America, revealed today that the possibility of the loss of three out of the 12 machines originally picked to cross the ocean to Brazil was foreseen by officers and men.

Two of the machines crashed at the takeoff in Bolama for Brazil, ending in the death of five men and injury to three. Two of the accompanying supply planes, contrary to previous expectations, also started across but were forced down a short distance from Natal and taken in tow by Italian cruisers. One of these planes since has rejoined the main air flotilla.

Tells of Forecast

Addressing Premier Benito Mussolini in his official report, General Balbo pointed out he forecast the loss of possibly three of his planes before the crossing could be accomplished, and that weather conditions encountered over the ocean greatly increased the expected flying hazards.

The entire flight, the report said, was made by dead reckoning.

General Balbo stated that at first he was not aware of the disaster which marred the start of the flight, but that later he was informed by radio of the loss of two machines and five men

SHORTAGE OF WATER HITS FARMERS HERE

Many Forced To Carry Water to Stock as Wells, Streams Dry Up; Summer Drouth Felt Throughout State.

Although a half-inch rain fell Monday and Tuesday, many Marion county farmers are still being forced to carry water to supply their livestock as the result of their wells and cisterns being empty due to the record drouth of last summer and autumn, it was learned today.

That some districts in Ohio are hard hit by the shortage is shown in an order placed by the village of Blanchester last week with the Baltimore & Ohio railroad to deliver 25,000 gallons of water daily in tank cars. The rainfall this week, however, gave the village a 100-day supply.

The water shortage in the county is peculiar in that only certain districts seems to be hit, a survey of the county indicates. While some farmers have been forced to carry water from nearby streams and quarries, others report their wells low but the supply is sufficient to care for their needs for some time.

Numerous other farmers have drilled their wells deeper and some have gone so far as to drill entirely new wells in order to reach water deposits far below the surface.

Marion city itself has never been seriously threatened with a shortage, according to George Whysall, manager of the Marion Water Co. Vast deposits of water under the city will keep the city supplied with its needs indefinitely, he says. The level in the wells from which

Gasoline Drops To Three-Year Low Mark Here

Gasoline prices in Marion and Marion township today fell to the lowest point in three years when the major oil companies announced a drop of one cent a gallon to the new low level of 14 cents a gallon for the regular gasoline.

The new price levels for both the regular and the higher test gasoline now are three cents below the statewide prices. Higher test is selling at 17 and 18 cents a gallon here as compared to 20 and 21 cents in other parts of the state.

In other parts of Marion county gasoline is still selling at 15 and 18 cents for the two varieties, the prices having fallen to those levels last week throughout the city and county.

The drop is occasioned by a price war, it is reported.

HOSPITAL INMATE IS VICTIM OF KIDNAPER

Man Posing as Postman Abducts Ward of Feeble-Minded Institution.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 9—A man posing as a mail carrier kidnaped Mrs. Hutimier Weston, 22, from the Columbus State hospital for feeble-minded last night, officials of the institution reported to police today.

Miss Anne Buchanan, attendant in a cottage where the girl was being housed was injured in an attempt to ward off the kidnaper. She said the man told her he had a special delviery letter for Mrs. Weston and was compelled to deliver it personally. While the girl was signing for the letter the man grabbed her and carried her to a waiting automobile, Miss Buchanan said.

Mrs. Weston was committed to the institution six years ago. Her husband recently was released from Ohio penitentiary on parole. Authorities are seeking a motive for the kidnaping in the hope of tracing the victim.

MAN STOPS SPREAD OF FLAMES TO GAS

Fire Damages Building Near Oil, Gasoline Storage Tanks at LaRue.

Special to The Star.

LARUE, O., Jan. 9—Tanks containing oil and gas near the center of this village were threatened this morning when fire caused $300 damage to the office of the Johnson Oil Co. bulk station.

Kenneth Haudenshield, manager of the station, prevented spread of the flames with a hand fire extinguisher until the fire department arrived.

Sparks from a gasoline engine used to drive a pump started the blaze. The building contained large quantities of oil and grease while large gasoline storage tanks were nearby.

The fire started at 9 a. m.

MOVIE STARS ARM FOR WAR

Latest Kidnaping and Gem Theft Brings Fear to Filmland.

SEE UNDERWORLD THREAT

Armed Guards Patrol Estates of Several Hollywood Notables.

By The Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 9—Filmland is girding itself for war. Blank cartridges have been replaced by real ones in weapons buckled on by hitherto synthetic warriors, as picture folk accept what they believe to be a challenge from the underworld.

The warlike atmosphere prevailing in this star spangled city is the result of the kidnaping and robbing in New York Wednesday night of Lita Grey Chaplin. Mrs. Chaplin was robbed of $14,000 in jewelry.

The action of the kidnapers in robbing the former wife of Charlie Chaplin, with her escort, Georges Carpentier, former heavyweight boxer and now an actor, at the point of pistols, was regarded here as a possible forerunner of future similar attempts on people of the films.

Robbery attempts made recently in Hollywood, which resulted disastrously for the would-be holdup men, further strengthened the belief of film folk that the attractive field offered by them to gunmen had been recognized by the underworld.

The chauffeurs of Janet Gaynor, Edmund Lowe and Winfield Sheehan, film executive, hold permits to carry arms, while armed guards patrol the estates of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, Gloria Swanson, Harold Lloyd and many others prominent in picture making.

Guards accompany the children of some film stars at all times. Watchmen protect the actors and their estates. Hollywood has taken on the complexion of an armed camp.

Thugs in recent robbery attempts on picture stars were bested when George O'Brien, portrayer of he-man roles, battered two men to the ground after disarming them, and turned them over to police.

Bandit Robs 3 Officers of Money and Weapons

By The Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 9—A lone bandit early today held up a Millvale squire's office, robbed a state highway patrolman, a chief of police and a justice of the peace of their guns and money and escaped.

Corporal Larry Moore of the Pennsylvania highway patrol, Chief of Police Phil Mitchell and Justice of the Peace Eugene Mehrich, sat chatting in Mehrich's office, when the door flew open and the trio found themselves facing a leering bandit with two guns poised for action.

Smiling at the uniformed highway patrolman, the intruder ordered him to place his money and gun on a chair near the door. Moore complied as did Mitchell and Mehrich in turn.

Pocketing one gun, the bandit scooped up his loot with his free hand. Then waving a cheery good bye to his victims he vanished.

OHIO BANKING DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS SUED

Depositors of Defunct Bank in Washington C. H. Seek To Recover Funds.

MAKE $2,422,237 CLAIM

Assert Department Heads Should Have Discovered Insolvency.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 9—A suit charging the present state superintendent of banks and his predecessor with failure to discover the insolvency of the Ohio State bank at Washington C. H., and seeking to recover from them and 24 other defendants the $2,422,237 lost by depositors was filed in common pleas court here today.

The action was brought by Attorney Frank S. Monnett of Columbus, on behalf of Jacob H. Chenault of Washington C. H., who is acting in a representative capacity for the bank's 4,300 depositors.

First on Record

According to Monnett, it is the first suit of its kind in this state seeking to hold officials of the banking department and their bondsmen responsible for losses incurred by a bank's patrons.

In addition to O. C. Gray, the present superintendent, the action names E. H. Blair, former superintendent, various inspectors, Mal S. Daugherty, president and the entire board of directors of the bank, Gray's bondsmen, the National Surety company, and the Columbia Casualty company, bondsmen for Blair, also are named defendants.

The petition sets out the charges contained in indictments returned against Mal S. Daugherty by the grand jury at Washington C. H. It links both Gray and Blair because the insolvency of the bank was alleged to have existed for three years, during which their terms overlapped.

The condition of the institution could have been discovered by proper investigation on the part of the banking department, the suit charges.

Responsibility Asserted

It holds the state officials responsible for permitting Mal Daugherty to withdraw large sums from the bank while he was insolvent and for adjudging him the owner of 70,500 shares of stock, having a total value of $141,000 when he was "wholly insolvent for that amount as well as other amounts he had borrowed without security."

Besides the judgment for nearly two and a quarter million, the suits ask for an accounting from the Central Trust company of Cincinnati, which was alleged to have advanced $45,000 to the Ohio State bank on collateral taken from the bank at the time it was insolvent. This money, the petition says, was paid back to the Cincinnati institution.

$16,851 IN LICENSE FEES DISTRIBUTED

Auditor Splits Income from Sale of 1931 Automobile Tags.

A total of $16,851.40 in automobile license fees was distributed to various districts in the county today by County Auditor Earl E. Thomas.

The money represents part of that collected for license plates during December, and a further distribution of money collected since Jan. 1 will be made in several weeks, Thomas said.

Marion city benefitted to the extent of $3,814.45, while the county received $3,396.25. The state of Ohio shared 50 per cent of the total, or $8,425.70.

Other districts receiving shares of the fees are as follows: Caledonia, $127.35; Green Camp, $238.65; LaRue, $96.15; Morral, $19; Agosta, $45.05; Prospect, $483.70, and Waldo $205.10.

INTERPRET VIEW

British Press Comments on Encyclical Issued by Pope.

By International News Service.

LONDON, Jan. 9—Pope Pius XI's encyclical on marriage, issued yesterday and scathingly condemning modern marital views and practices, was generally regarded by London newspapers today as a sharp rejoinder to recent views on birth control reached by the Lambeth bishops' conference held here.

Resolutions adopted by that body conceded that birth control was admissable under certain circumstances, while the pontiff's encyclical unconditionally outlawed it along with divorce and other new conceptions.

The London Daily Express, pointing out that the 16,000-word document was remarkable for its lucidity and precision, concluded:

HEADS IN LINGLE CASE SOUGHT

Man Accused in Slaying Held Under Cover in Hunt for Higher Ups.

CONFESSION IS REPORTED

Rumor That Brothers Admits Killing Neither Confirmed Nor Denied.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 9—Plans to put Leo V. Brothers, St. Louis gangster, in the electric chair as the slayer of Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter, were pushed today while reports were circulated that Brothers had confessed. There was no official confirmation of these reports, and State's Attorney Johnson A. Swanson said he was not prepared either to confirm or deny them.

A definite announcement was made, however, by Charles E. Ruthbun, special assistant state's attorney in charge of the Lingle investigation, and Patrick Roche, chief investigator for Swanson, that an immediate trial for Brothers will be asked by the state, adding that "we are prepared now." Authorities said nine witnesses had identified Brothers as Lingle's slayer.

On Trail of "Higher-Ups"

The "higher-ups" in the case—the men who had the motive for causing Lingle to be shot to death last June 9 as he walked through a tunnel toward a suburban railroad station—were being sought. Rumors prevailed that their arrests were expected momentarily.

Simultaneously it was learned that at least four men were wanted. There were reports that these included James "Red" Forsythe and Simon Gordon, both reputed racketeers.

Forsythe once was named as Lingle's slayer. Both he and Gordon are also wanted as fugitives from justice under an affirmed sentence of one year for carrying concealed weapons.

Kept in Hiding

Brothers was held in custody in a secret hiding place while the investigators worked for additional details which Ruthbun said would have to be withheld from the public to prevent complications in the investigation. He indicated, however, that the authorities know the motive back of the assassination.

Bank Records Reveal Huge Embezzlement

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9—The books of the Lawrence Avenue national bank, federal investigators said today, showed an embezzlement of at least $100,000. The bank was recently closed after John E. Malloy, assistant cashier, said he had been kidnaped by bank robbers and taken to Milwaukee. He was charged with embezzlement and plans were made to give him a hearing before a United States commissioner Saturday.

Thursday morning's paper had some pretty bright news in it. It wasn't anybody's "prediction." It was that over 100,000 men had just been put to work. That's not 5,000,000, but it's a start.

TAKES CONTROL OF FORCE FOR 90-DAY TEST

Mayor L. Don Jones Announces Appointment Today at 2:30 P. M.

IS WORLD WAR VET

Successor to J. W. Thompson Is Captain of National Guard Unit.

William E. Marks Monday will become police chief of Marion. Announcement of his appointment for a 90-day probationary period was made today at 2:30 p. m. by Mayor L. Don Jones.

Marks is 41, and lives at 850 Woodrow avenue. He at present is captain of B company of the Ohio National Guard. He is a World war veteran of Co. G, Third Training Detachment, at Yale, New Haven, Conn.

Has Four Daughters

He is married and the father of four daughters. He has lived in Marion nine years, and is manager of the Marion Auto Electric Service on North Main street.

Marks is one of three men certified to Mayor L. Don Jones by the civil service commission from whom the next police chief of Marion was to be chosen. His grade was second high.

"I intend to do my duty as I see it to the best of my ability," Marks said today. "I want to be fair and treat everyone alike, and to obtain and hold the cooperation of city officials and the police force," he said.

With his appointment, acting Chief Ira Behrock today was preparing to resume his duties as police captain, after serving at the head of the department since the resignation of J. W. Thompson as chief last Aug. 22. Acting Captain A. W. McColly will again become patrolman.

Seventeen After Job

The appointment of Marks this afternoon follows a civil service commission examination Dec. 16 when 17 applicants for the job were examined by the commission.

Names of E. C. Macken, Marks and Claude Werts were certified for appointment.

The power of appointing a police chief is vested in the mayor, instead of the director of public safety, it was revealed at city hall today. The director makes patrolmen and fireman appointments, but a department head is chosen by the mayor, officials explained.

PATHE TAKES NEWS REEL OF MEMORIAL

Dr. Carl W. Sawyer Speaks for Sound Views of Tomb.

Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, third vice president and member of the executive committee and board of trustees of the Harding Memorial association, spoke for a sound news reel film at the Harding Memorial yesterday afternoon to review the brief history of the memorial and events leading up to the scheduled dedication of the tomb some time this year.

After relating that the memorial was founded with money contributed from all sections of the country, Dr. Sawyer told of the association's resolution inviting President Hoover and former President Coolidge to participate in the dedication this year. He read sections of the resolution in which the invitation was embodied.

The interview was filmed by Pathe news reel reporters.

Asks Permission To Do Intra-State Business

"Don't ask me why!"

Excuses a man seems never to understand; explanations that are embarrassing. Women who have learned of Midol avoid these unpleasant experiences!

Midol is not a narcotic, but it does banish the suffering which too often attends the monthly period. It acts quite harmlessly, but effectively, on the organs affected. Safe, but swift; complete comfort comes in five to seven minutes. You will get this relief regardless of how hard a time you've always had. These wonderful tablets do nothing to hinder the normal, natural periodic process, so it's only common sense to use them.

If you would spare yourself all suffering at this time, get Midol in a trim little metal case for purse or pocket. Fifty cents at any drugstore. Many have found Midol the quickest relief for headaches, neuralgia, neuritis, and other pain.—Adv.

If You Feel Weak and Sickly Take Warning Now!

Tired? Run down? Feeling out of sorts? That's nature's danger sign that you're out of condition.

Right now, this minute, you're probably suffering from vitamin starvation. Even if you eat three meals a day you're not getting all the vitamins you need. The way to get these vitamins is to take cod liver oil. But don't take it the old-fashioned liquid way. Take it in tiny tasteless tablets.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets will give you all the vitamins of the pure Norway cod liver oil from which they're made. All the benefits are there. Everything but the bad taste. Your guarantee of this is the seal of approval of the Good Housekeeping Institute.

So to get back on the road to normal health and vigor, start taking McCoy's today. You can get them at any drug store; and once you see how they help you, you'll thank us for this advice. 60 tablets—60 cents.—Adv.

CHAPTER 16
Grim News

[illegible] the truth—that [illegible] met Vivienne [illegible] at Channing's [illegible], he knew, was [illegible] a pretty girl [illegible]

[illegible] riled him. [illegible] waiting for her at [illegible] getting dinner [illegible] were that [illegible] suggest their or- [illegible] to warn the fool [illegible] him. Not that [illegible] what Vivi- [illegible] do—except on [illegible] the same, he [illegible] to break this [illegible] to hit on some [illegible] Vivienne realize [illegible] Kronberg show is [illegible] days Kronberg [illegible] page in a whale [illegible]. It might be as [illegible] Viv that she [illegible] an inspiration. [illegible] seen him. Twen- [illegible] was sitting before the fire in Channing's studio. Channing listened quietly to Jimmy's story. His code forbade his mentioning the scene that had passed between Vivienne and himself. He had been certain that Vivienne would get in touch with Kronberg.

Her motive was perfectly plain, and unless he was much mistaken, there was something more than pique in her having phoned to the producer. She was far too sophisticated not to be thoroughly aware of what she was about.

Channing strongly suspected that her underlying purpose was to make him jealous, though he discounted her sincerity in proposing what she had to him.

She would never have gone through with it if his answer had been different. She had known what his reaction would be.

The trouble was that it peeved her that his only interest in her charms had been from an artist's viewpoint.

Outwardly, at least, Viv was the type that could not exist without being told she was lovely. By deliberately holding himself aloof he had offended her.

The real secret was that Vivienne needed a man who would care for her as Crane cared for Aileen. With all of her deep intensity—as yet only partly stirred—her soul cried for the caresses of a man who would be strong enough to shackle her affections.

Perhaps he had been rather brutal in his treatment of Vivienne. Yet his analysis of her character suggested that it was better to let her work out her own salvation. Just now she was the victim of a flood of conflicting desires—not a little desperate at the responsibility that had fallen on her shoulders—through her own thoughtlessness.

"Don't worry," he said to Jimmy. "If Viv's the girl I think she is, Kronberg's wasting time. If she found a man she really loved, she'd go the limit for him. But there won't be any affinity between Vivienne and Kronberg. He's clever and has a thin veneer which goes very well with the sort of girls who are looking for exactly what he has to offer. Viv will resent him the moment the man reveals himself. And he doesn't waste much time. So I rather think his experience will be a good thing for her. She's in a hard position, and she'll have to find herself."

"But Aileen will eat her heart out—while the experiment's going on!"

"No she won't." Channing said. "The very thing that Vivienne imagines she may do will spur Aileen to effort. It will show her the necessity of making herself independent. That's going to help a lot. If you stir up Vivienne you'll only add fuel to the fire."

"Maybe you're right," said Jimmy. "I guess I'd better get on the job and frame up Aileen's appointment or she may lose her nerve."

"She won't. You mustn't let her. But wait a minute. What you've said suggests another angle. If Aileen's voice has the quality that's needed for recording, it seems to me that she could sing over the radio. Practically all of the microphone stars started making records."

"That's true," said Crane. "But the trouble is she's so sensitive she'd never consent to facing the crowd in a studio."

"I thought you were a publicity man!" Channing smiled through a cloud of smoke.

"That's an angle which makes it worse," Jimmy said hopelessly. "She wants to forget Miss Santa Claus. I think the thing she dreads most is her fear that people will pity her. I don't mean just in the studio, but the whole public, when it reads about who she is."

"Jimmy, you're hopeless!" Channing laughed. "We will forget Miss Santa Claus—and create a mystery star. I'll phone to Colonel Sherwood. He's the man to talk to at the U. B. C. She can have her audition with no one in the studio but the control-board men. We'll turn this infernal mask of hers into a real advantage."

"I'm afraid she'd never stand for that. You mean masked tenor stuff?"

"With a brand new twist that'll make a hit with some advertising sponsor. Now suppose a young woman swathed in furs, steps off an ocean liner—wearing a porcelain mask. Will the ship-news reporters wonder who she is? I'll bet they don't even trouble to ask her for her press agent's name. A story is a story. Then suppose she goes to the Ambassador, states that she's here incognito, and retires to her private suite? What would you say to that?"

"I'll say the idea's a pippin—except that everything centers on a natural curiosity to get a peep at her features. And of course, she can't unveil."

"We'll make it a part of the contract that her true identity is not to be revealed," Channing said. "There'll be something psychological in the fact that this mask is intriguing. I'll model it for her myself. Without even the faintest resemblance to Aileen's own features. A fascinating, haunting face that'll be as famous in a month as the Mona Lisa. People may stare and wonder, but no one will have an idea there are scars underneath the surface. That'll make all the difference in her attitude toward it."

"I believe you're right," Jimmy agreed. "But it'll cost some coin."

"Not much," Channing figured. "The Mask will be my part of it. Its easy to smuggle her on board when the ship comes in. No one will be the wiser. Then she can come down the gang-plank surrounded by her retinue while the camera's click."

"You're wasting your time as an artist!" cried Jimmy. "It's mighty fine of you to help me out like this."

"Glad to," Channing answered. "I feel responsible—having made that statue—and her accident happened here. Why not have dinner with me?"

"Jimmy wondered whether this porcelain mask that Channing had proposed, would really make such a difference in Aileen's mental viewpoint. It was certainly worth trying.

The telephone began to ring and Channing called out from his bedroom. "Crane, would you mind answering that? I'll be there in a moment."

Jimmy lifted the receiver and absently said "Hello!" A woman's voice was speaking, hardly above a whisper, a tremulous note in her tone. "Is that you, Dwight?" came the question.

"Just a second." Crane answered. Then, before he could say anything more, he heard his own name.

"Jimmy! Jimmy, is that you? Do you know who's speaking?"

He did. It was Vivienne. "What is it? Anything I can do?"

"Oh, Jimmy—listen—and hurry! I'm in Arnold Kronberg's office. You know where it is? Jimmy, come over as quick as you can. I—I think—he's dead."

"That is the Simple"

SECRET of Exquisite Coffee

Every woman, every chef, knows that seasoning is the secret of each fine flavor. That is taste.

But that doesn't mean seasoning as you might make a sauce or mayonnaise. Nor simply the important selected blends like coffee. But seasoning, curing, maturing, in the principal ingredients themselves. Just as that which makes Golden Sun Coffee is first of all the coffee berries. Choice, large, plump berries, heavy with aromatic oils.

Then all the moisture must be removed. That is vital. The moisture must be lost slowly, skillfully, tedded in the long high mountain valleys in the tropics. When ripe only the goodness remains. Sun ripened berries.

Sun ripening is what gives Golden Sun Coffee such a marvelous fragrance and delicious flavor. That is what makes Golden Sun Coffee the best-selling coffee in many large cities.

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY was the last day of school this week, and the first week of school this year. It is still a long ways to vacation. I got up and went downstairs in Banty's house and made a fire in the kitchen and shook up the bass burner like I do at home, and then his mother came out to dress by the bass burner and I had to go back upstairs and dress in the cold, and she never noticed that Jubilee came downstairs with us when we came down to eat. She made coffee and bacon and eggs and toast and we had canned strawberries and she said it was fun having a nice boy and dog like me and Jubilee in the house and she felt perfectly safe. She fed Jubilee and I hiked out, and Banety went along so's to get another breakfast.

My father was grouchy because he had to get up and let me in again. I wonder if he don't think I ought to get grouchy walking home through the snow. Miss Parmer slept upstairs in my bed last night, because my ant said she was used to sleeping alone. But I bet Miss Parmer won't want to sleep up there again. She didn't know what was the matter with herself, but I did. She had flees from sleeping in the same bed that Jubilee sleeps in. Sometimes a few flees get off of Jubilee in the night and go out for a walk over the bed, and then me and Jubilee get out in the morning before they can hop aboard, and they have to wait there till we come back, unless someone else comes along.

When we were eating breakfast Miss Parmer would get something half way to her mouth, then she would stop and look supprized, then she would wiggle a little, then she would put it in her mouth, and then maybe she would jump. She told my mother she thought she must have the hives or something, and she left the table to go upstairs and look, but she said she guest it was her imagination when she came down again. I was the only one that knew what it was, and I didn't dast tell her. But she hiked out for home as soon as she had et. When she came back tonight she told my mother that she had found some flees, and mother said she was supprized. My ant said she wasn't. She said that when a boy associated with a cur dog all day he is bound to get his room full of flees. Then Miss Palmer said that was a good joke on her, but she would sleep with my ant again, and my ant said that would be a good joke on her, and everyone laughed.

Banty and his mother came over for supper and we stayed till late and then went to another picture show, and it was about the middle of the night when we went home. The world was offal white and still. I would like to live there always. No ant, and a picture show every night. And no cows. Boy!

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

The Chinese Visitor, Threatens Dire Happenings.

IF one of the rabbits living in the garden suddenly had come up to me and demanded something in my possession, I should not have been more astounded than I was when the Chinese laundryman who had asked to see me demanded that I give him "a box, papers inside." He was so poor a specimen of humanity, so harmless in appearance that the demand seemed utterly incongruous. One thing I saw clearly, however. No one was in any danger from this poor Chinese. That he was in mortal terror of something or somebody, I knew from the furtive, anxious looks he cast toward the door. He evidently had been compelled to come to the farmhouse on this errand, but he had no zest in his task.

But though the man himself did not frighten me, the words he had spoken had a special sinister meaning for me. "A box, papers inside," could mean but one thing, I felt, and that was the lock box which Marion's dying grandmother had given her. Marion was but a tiny child at the time, but her poor old grandmother, though half senile, had so impressed the necessity of secrecy upon her, that not for years had she shown the box or spoken of it, even to her mother.

The Warning

Especially to her mother. I should have written, for Tom Morton's old mother, though left absolutely dependent upon Lillian, who gave her unflagging, devoted care, had so much loyalty to her motherless son, that she had carried even to her deathbed obedience to the mandate he evidently had laid upon her before he died, that Lillian should know nothing of his affairs.

I brought myself back with an effort from the memories which this mention of the box had brought to me.

The Chinese was waiting for an answer, and from somewhere I pumped up the courage to give him one. In reality I was dazed at the sudden right-about-face which my ideas had suffered. When Katie had given me the message that the man was in the kitchen waiting to see me, I had leaped to the conclusion that he had come, as once before, with news of Hugh Grantland, whose inexplicable silence had so worried me. But neither Hugh nor his high-born Chinese friend, Lee Chow, could have any possible knowledge or interest in the old lock box. If by any wild chance, they could have known of it, I knew that neither of them would have sent me a message so imperative as this one appeared to be.

I faced the man steadily, made my voice stern in the effort to conceal the tremolo which threatened to betray my apprehensions.

"What do you mean?" I demanded. "I have no box with papers. If I had one I should not give it to you."

He shrank back at my sternness, then stopped and eyed me steadily. I was reminded irresistibly of a rat I once had surprised in the kitchen, in our early days at the farmhouse, and which had hunched itself and looked at me with beady unwinking eyes masking terror such as I guessed was possessing the soul of the man before me.

"You no have box," he said, "but box here, belong to girl. You no give to me, awful things happen."

A perceptible shiver ran over him, and felt that chill invading my own heart. Melodramatic and outlandish as was his warning, he patently believed every word that he was saying.

"Who sent you here?" I asked. And at the question he looked from side to side as if seeking a place to which to run.

Madge's Ultimatum

"I no want come here," he burst out at last, as if the words were forced from him. "Me, I good man. Fiend Lee Chow, do all he say. But he gone far away, maybe never come back. Velly bad mens say come here, get box."

"What kind of men?" I persisted. "White men? Chinese?"

"No, white men," he answered so quickly that I knew it had been an involuntarily reply. If he had stopped to think, he would not have made it. To cover his slip, he repeated his demand, but this time in a milder, more insinuating tone.

"You give me box, and I go."

Inwardly quaking, but outwardly stern, I faced him and delivered my ultimatum.

"I tell you I have no box. If I had, I would not give it to you. Go back to the men that sent you, and tell them I shall notify the police at once about this demand. If they dare to come near the farmhouse, they will be arrested. If you come here again an officer will take you away."

He looked at me with eyes that reflected a soul in torment.

"Me sorry," he said, "sorry for me, more sorry for you."

Ohio Mother Knew Best

WISE mothers find the things that keep children contented, happy, well. Most of them have learned they can depend on one thing to restore a youngster's good nature when he's cross, fretful, upset.

The experience of Mrs. W. J. Winter, 1407 East 88th St., Cleveland, is a typical one. She says: "I have used California Fig Syrup with both my boys for a number of years. Whenever they're the least bit constipated or restless I give them a little. It has them comfortable, happy, well in a jiffy. Their splendid condition proves I knew best when I decided to use this wonderful preparation with them."

Physicians endorse the use of pure vegetable California Fig Syrup when bad breath, coated tongue, dullness, feverishness, listlessness, etc., show a child's bowels are in need of help. Weak stomach and bowels are toned by its gentle aid; appetite increased; digestion and assimilation are so assisted that weak, undernourished children quickly improve in weight, strength and energy.

The genuine always bears the word California. So look for that when buying. All drugstores have it.

RAICHLEY CASE CARRIED UP

Attorneys for Executors Appeal Decision to District Court.

Citing alleged errors in the findings of common pleas court, attorneys for Harry J. Merchant and Clyde C. Smith, executors of the Burr Raichley estate, yesterday filed a motion to carry the case to the third district court of appeals.

Common pleas court some time ago concurred with probate court in ordering attorneys employed by Merchant and Smith to repay most of the fees they had been paid in defending the will from attempts of heirs to break it.

Orders $30,200 Repaid

The fees totaled $32,246.33, of which both probate court and common pleas court ordered $30,200 repaid on grounds that executors were not responsible for the defense of a contested will and consequently could not pay attorneys for such defense.

Exceptions to the payment of the fees were filed by the Marion Masonic Temple Co. through LeRoy D. Zachman and the late James A. Knapp. The company was the principal legatee of the will, having been bequeathed real estate located north of the post office on State street for use as a new temple site. The entire estate was worth approximately $135,000.

Fees whose payment was objected by Zachman and Knapp were the following: $8,500 paid to John H. Bartram, $7,746.33 paid to James H. Eymon, $8,500 paid to Fred E. Guthery, $5,500 paid to Grant E. Mouser, Sr., and $2,000 paid to A. K. Hall of Upper Sandusky.

Order Hits Executors

Both probate court and common pleas court sanctioned the payment of $3,571.33 of the $7,746.33 paid to Eymon on grounds that he was legal advisor to the executors. Both courts, however, ordered each executor to repay to the estate $1,200 of the $6,121.33 salary which each received from the estate.

The fees were paid following several years of litigation over the contested will. It went through the federal court at Toledo, the federal district court of appeals at Cincinnati and the United States supreme court, in all of which the defending attorneys prevented the will from being broken. The payment of the fees then precipitated another legal battle through probate and common pleas court and which now may be taken through the court of appeals if the latter acts favorably on the motion filed yesterday.

SECRETARY PROBLEM PUZZLE FOR HOOVER

Requests Akerson To Hold On While Quest for New Man Proceeds.

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—President Hoover is encountering considerable difficulty finding a new key man for his official White House family.

The resignation of George Akerson as his secretary and liaison officer with congress and the press has left the President such a problem that he may be forced to reorganize his system of secretarial contacts rather than select a single man to fill Akerson's place.

Because of this, it was learned today, Mr. Hoover has asked Akerson to remain after Jan. 15, the date originally fixed by the secretary for his retirement. Akerson, who has accepted a lucrative position with Paramount-Publix Corp., is understood to have consented. In order to permit the President to work out the situation he may stay until March 4, but at least will remain until Feb. 15.

The secretarial post is perhaps the most important in the White House inner circle. It has been the point around which Mr. Hoover built practically all his public relations.

At first he desired to replace Akerson with someone from the corps of Washington correspondents. Numerous candidates were put forward, but it is understood the President has not been able to obtain any of the men desired. Now he has turned his eye to other fields, but here, too, he is having trouble getting the kind of man he wants for the government salary of $10,000 a year.

Rules of the Road

THE "turtle driver," a term applied to the motorist who keeps his car windows closed during the winter and fails to signal his intention to stop or make a turn, frequently is a contributor to the accident list, an automobile bulletin states.

Such drivers are in the same class with the "street ostrich," the pedestrian who blindly crosses the street with his head tucked in his coat collar or buried in a newspaper, it is declared.

Standard signals include the pointing of the hand and arm upward in case of an intended right turn; the extension of the hand and arm horizontally, with the forefinger pointing, for a left turn, and the dropping of the hand and arm downward for a stop.

Signals should always be given during the last 50 feet before turning or stopping.

Important Question

THROUGH a coincidence, Marion and Mansfield municipal courts are awaiting rulings of higher courts on parallel cases, involving an interpretation of the liquor laws.

Cases from municipal courts of both cities are now before common pleas courts in both Marion and Richland counties for a determination of whether a man can legally possess home brew or other intoxicating liquors in a residence.

"When intoxicating liquor is found in a private dwelling house such place loses its status as a bona fide private dwelling," Judge James W. Galbraith of the Richland county common pleas court recently ruled in affirming a municipal court decision in liquor case.

Judge William R. Martin recently ruled in municipal court to the same effect, making the provision however, that the home retains its bona fide rights if the liquor is legally obtained. To be legally obtained, the liquor must have been possessed before the enactment of the Volstead law, or obtained through a phyician's prescription.

The statutes on the matter are somewhat contradictory, making it difficult the exact meaning of legislature. One statute says a bona fide private residence cannot be raided for liquor unless there is evidence of liquor trafficking, or of sale of liquor. Another states that the possession of intoxicating liquor illegally obtained takes from a residence its rights of a bona fide home.

HARDING FIVE TO CLASH WITH ASHLAND

PRESIDENTS IN FIRST LEAGUE ROAD GAME OF SEASON TONIGHT

Galion Meets Mansfield; Bucyrus Plays Shelby; Local Team Is Underdog.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

ANXIOUS but not particularly confident., Harding High's President basketeers will journey to Ashland tonight where they will attempt to batter their way through the court defenses of the Hilltoppers for the first local cage victory of the current season The conflict will be the second Enseco league conflict for both quintets this season. Ashland was the victor over Bucyrus in the opening battle a week ago while Harding was loser to Mansfield on the same night.

While the Bohyermen are engaging the Starn conched five on the foreign court, Galion will be doing what it can about chalking up two consecutive victories with Mansfield providing the opposition. Mansfield is the team that defeated Harding last week In the third of a trio of scheduled contests Bucyrus will take on the present champions of the circuit Shelby on the Whippet floor. This game will be the only one of the three in which two beaten teams will clash. Last Friday Shelby dropped a game to Galion while Ashland was upsetting the Redmen.

Ashland Favored

Whether or not the representatives of Harding are as bad as they appeared last week in the first league start of the year will probably be decided tonight in Ashland, Mansfield with a team that can be classed as only mediocre, trounced the Marion five in a rough and tumble game, 13 to 10, neither team displaying any high class brand of basketball

Ashland on the other hand came through with a decisive victory over Bucyrus, flashing unexpected power on attack and a fairly tight defense. As a result of the previous showings of the two teams and also of the apparent lack of improvement which the Harding five has shown in practice this week, the Ashlanders will be heavy favorites to add another league scalp to their belt tonight—Marion furnishing the scalp

Regulars Benched

Over in Bucyrus, Couch J. J. Winters has taken the Ashland beating last week as a reason for dismembering what has formerly been classed as the varsity team. Clady and LaPointe, have been relegated to the bench to make way for other men whom Winters hopes will be able to put his school into the winning column without further delay. Talbott, also has been shifted but has not been taken from the lineup. He has been playing at guard instead of forward this week and may reasonably be expected to start the Shelby game tonight at this post.

Chick Young has been maintaining a discreet silence about his charges but it is expected he will start the same five that lost to Galion last week. Shelby is present holder of the title and up to last week was favored to repeat for another but the outlook changed somewhat as Galion submerged the champs in the league opener. Shelby should be strong enough to defeat Bucyrus tonight although Winters may have accomplished enough during this week to upset the Whippets.

Tygers Due to Lose

Mansfield critics have not despaired as yet of seeing the Tygers come through with a surprise victory or two this senosn over championship contenders and tonight is an excellent time for them to inaugurate this upset feature. However if Galion does not take home a victory over Mansfield it will be because several of Galion's point getters have apoplexy before the game is completed. The Tygers may spring a few of the predicted upsets before the season is over but it doesn't look like tonight would see the first one accomplished. Galion should win in good style

SHOVEL Y-INDUS TO MEET COLUMBUS FIVE ON LOCAL HARDWOOD

To Play Third Game of Week Saturday Night in West Side Gym.

With a record to date of 16 games and 170 victories, the Shovel Y-Indus basketball club will meet its third opponent of the current week Saturday night in the Steam Shovel gym. Columbus Evening High school will invade the Marion court for the local's seventeenth start of the year.

Composed of former high school stars of the capital city, the Columbus team has been able to play on nearly even terms with best teams in the club's home city. Central High school, at present leading the Columbus high school court race, was held to a 17 to 13 score recently. Two victims of the team are the Morrey Jewelers and Columbus Bolt Works. The Morrey team is made up of former Ohio State players, such as Tittle, Ehrensberger and Vanfleyde.

The Y-Indus team will have its full first team strength on the floor Saturday against the Columbus five and will put up a desperate battle to keep the game result out of the defeat column. The club will be crippled slightly in reserve timber but the first stringers will be ready when the whistle sounds the starting of the game.

Chuck Osterholt is the latest to enter the casualty list for the local cub. Chuck attempted to use his nose to remove a Cincinnati player from his path Wednesday night and came out second best. As a result, he has a cracked bone in the injured member and may not play any for a couple of games. Bill Fetter is the other man on the incapacitated list. He hurt a knee in the Ashland game last Saturday and may be out most of the season.

The Marion Y club will be favorites to defeat the Columbus five.

A preliminary game between the Marion Business college and an unnamed team will be played at 7:30. The Y-Indus game will start at 8:15.

"Pinkie" Gardner, shown above, will be one of the featured attractions in the initial wrestling bill of the 1931 season Monday night in the Steam Shovel gym. Gardner will meet Frank Wolffe, the subtle Australian, in the main go of a card that will bring together "Hardy" Kruskamp, former Ohio State grid star, and Frank Higgins. Gardner is one of the top-notchers in the light heavyweight class and is making a serious bid for the title.

Amateur Sports Gaining in Athletic Scheme of Nation

BY AVERY BRUNDAGE
President, Amateur Athletic Union
By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 9 — Amateur sport each year gains a more important place in our scheme of things here in the United States.

The year 1930, despite the condition of business in general, has proved no exception and during the past twelve months amateur sport has thrived as never before. This applies not only to the schools and colleges but also to industrial organizations, playgrounds athletic clubs both large and small, fraternal orders and other groups.

During the year, many stellar performances were recorded. In track and field alone, the Amateur Athletic Union accepted 71 world and national records, some of the most noteworthy being Frank Wykoff's 100-yard record of 9 2-5 seconds, Paul Jessup's remarkable discus throw of 169 feet 8⅞ inches, and James DeMer's javelin throw record of 222 feet 6¼ inches.

Men were not alone in the record breaking. At the women's national championships at Dallas, Texas, five world's records were broken and perhaps the most remarkable individual athletic performance of the year was that of Helene Madison, of Seattle In one week at the A. A. U. outdoor swimming championships, at Long Beach, California, this 17-year old girl erased all the records for standard distances from 100-yards to one mile inclusive

One of the most interesting sporting events of the year was the international track and field game held in Chicago last August between the combined athletic forces of ten countries representing the British empire and a team of American champions. This was the first large track meet ever held outdoors at night. The Americans defeated the invaders and re-affirmed their supremacy on track and field although our performances on the tracks were not nearly so satisfactory as they might have been.

NEW YANKEE PILOT SIZES UP PROSPECTS IN AMERICAN LOOP

McCarthy Pretty Well Satisfied with Outlook of New York Ball Club.

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 9—Switching from the National to the American league and from the differences in the hitting and pitching eccentricities of the stars of one major circuit to another is the least of the worries ahead of Joe McCarthy, late of the Chicago Cubs and now head man with the New York Yankees.

"Baseball is baseball in any league," says plump Joe, visiting his new domain for the first time since contracting to replace Bob Shawkey, as the Yankee pilot. "You can't get away from the figures. Some hit 'em and some don't and the figures never lie.

Advice Plentiful

"When I came into the National league from Louisville five years ago everyone told me what to do—never to pitch to 'Irish' Meusel, of the Giants, for instance. They didn't need to worry and tell me that. All I had to do was look at the averages. He sure could knock in those runs. So here was a nice spot waiting for him on first base every time he came up with men on the other sacks. That's baseball in any league"

McCarthy figures there will be six dangerous clubs in the American league next season, with Washington and the world champion Athletics heading the pack. The Yankees, Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago all are capable, he thinks of turning the American league race into the kind of a scramble the National league usually stages.

Satisfied with Yanks

Gazing over the squad that comprises the Yankees, a team he hasn't seen in action since the glamorous days and the four game rout of the Pirates in the world series of 1927, McCarthy doesn't see where he is bad off at all.

McCarthy is satisfied with his outfield, with Combs in center field, Babe Ruth in right and either Dusty Cooke, Byrd or Walker, another youngster, in left. He wouldn't trade the respective members of his infield, Lazzeri, Lary, Chapman and Gehrig, reading from the left side to the right, for corresponding members of Connie Mack's Athletics, Dykes, Boley, Bishop and Foxx. His catchers, headed by Bill Dickey, will do

Miami University Books Pitt on Grid Schedule

By United Press

OXFORD, O., Jan. 9—The 1931 football schedule announced today by Director of Athletics George Rider of Miami university, includes a game on Sept. 26 with the University of Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.

The completed schedule is composed of nine games, six of which are with Buckeye Conference opponents. Both Wittenberg and Wabash are booked.

Miami will have 12 letter men returning next season. A promising group of players from the 1930 freshmen team also will be available for Coach Chester Pittser.

The schedule calls for games: Sept. 26, at Pittsburgh; Oct. 3, Ball Teachers; Oct. 10, Wabash; Oct. 17, Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware; Oct. 24, Georgetown; Oct. 31, Denison; Nov. 8, Wittenberg; Nov. 15, Ohio U. at Athens; Nov. 26, Cincinnati at Cincinnati.

WOOSTER BEATS ASHLAND

By United Press.

ASHLAND, O., Jan. 9—Wooster college kept its record clean here last night by defeating Ashland in an Ohio conference basketball game, 33 to 31. The game was hard and fast. Ashland rallied near the close but could not overtake Wooster.

Clarence Jensen, of Newark, N. J., will lead the North Carolina university cross-country team next fall.

BASKETS and BANKBOARDS

BY "PHOG" ALLEN

This is the first of a series of weekly basketball articles written by Forrest C. "Phog" Allen, director of athletics at the University of Kansas. Before plunging into comment of the current scene, Allen tells of the game's inventor, Dr. James Naismith.

• • •

By The Associated Press.

LAWRENCE, Kas.—This past summer I spent some happy weeks following old trails of Dr. James Naismith, inventor of the game of basketball.

It was my pleasure to teach his sport to college coaches in a special coaching school at Springfield, (Mass.) college, on the grounds where forty years ago he originated the indoor game.

The experience had deep significance for one basketball coach at least. Of course the peach baskets which once served as the original goals have been placed, long since, among other New England antiques—but the tradition of the game still lingers there.

• • •

I found myself teaching the sport with a new zest. Constantly I was reminded of the activities of the sturdy, young Scot, then a student, being requested by Luther H. Gulick, his adviser, to work out a game to harness the activities of a class of eighteen irrepressible, physical education students.

The class needed something to do during the inclement winter months between the football and baseball seasons.

The first rules printed in 1892 in the "Triangle" required that nine men be on each team. Had Naismith's class numbered 24 instead of 18, perhaps the basketball rules would have required 12 men instead of nine. The job assigned him was to originate a game that would take into account the numerical size of his class.

How well he succeeded in creating a game is shown by the fact that is is estimated 18 million persons are interested in basketball today. Naismith's original idea was to make basketball a mass game with great groups playing it; instead of that the game has developed into a most intricate five man team game with millions of teams playing. Basketball is the only national and international game that has come from the mind of a single man.

• • •

It would be a fitting tribute to Naismith, the inventor, if the colleges and schools of America would fix a small voluntary game-tax—the proceeds to be used as was the Walter Camp Memorial und.

A Naismith Memorial would be a living testimonial to the man who gave to youth a game 'protesting the fallacy that the world is old."

Two choice locations for such a national memorial comes to mind. The Springfield campus overlooking historic Lake Massasoit would be an ideal location. On the other hand, beautiful Mt. Oread, the campus of the University of Kansas could lay claim to the honor. It is here that Dr. Naismith has served the department of physical education for 33 years, giving the basketball world the best in the way of teaching, devotion and inspiration.

Dr. Naismith is a member of the National Joint Basketball Rules committee for life. At present he is spending his very active life in most interesting research in relation to physical education and athletic problems.

FORMER WRESTLING CHAMPION SUCCUMBS

Wayne Munn, Conqueror of Ed "Strangler" Lewis, Victim of Disease.

By The Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 9—Wayne Munn, 35, former heavyweight wrestling champion, died early today in the base hospital Fort Sam Houston, from Bright's disease.

Munn is survived by his widow, Edna W. Munn; a daughter, Mary Ann; three brothers, Monte, Wade and Glenn, and a sister, Elizabeth Munn.

The gigantic athlete who gained fame in football at the University of Nebraska and later became recognized as world's heavyweight wrestling champion by defeating Ed "Strangler" Lewis, in Kansas City, in 1925, came to San Antonio for treatment about a year ago His father-in-law lives here.

Munn refereed a few wrestling matches, gave exhibitions on request and spoke before schools and clubs, but his condition gradually failed and about 10 days ago doctors put him to bed as gravely ill.

May Jewelers Bowl 1089 To Set New Record

Record breaking performances on the Recreation Bowling alleys seems to be the vogue this week as the maple maulers in the various local leagues continue their fight for honors.

On Wednesday night an Erie railroader, Maskill crashed the maples for 10 strikes and a score of 288. Last night in the City league, the May Jewelry Co. five broke the all time mark for this circuit with a total mark in one game of 1089.

The May five won three games from the Marion Paint Company.

Wisconsin Meets Buckeye Cagers in Big Ten Battle.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 9—Ohio State will play its first Western conference basketball game of 1931 on the home court tomorrow night, meeting the University of Wisconsin.

Ohio lost to Pittsburgh and Notre Dame and won from Cornell in pre-conference games. The showing of the Buckeyes did not inspire their following to expect many Big Ten victories and, as a result, Wisconsin is the favorite.

Wisconsin, coached by Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, has one of the most promising teams in the circuit. Its stellar defense enabled it to defeat Illinois Monday night, 12 to 9. The Illini made only two field goals.

ENGLISH CHAMP MAKE RING DEBUT N. Y. ARENA TONIG

Len Harvey To Meet V Dundee in Middleweight Scrap.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9—One England's finest fighting chines, Len Harvey, makes American debut against V Dundee of Baltimore, in a tw round bout in Madison Sq Garden tonight.

Middleweight champion of native land and with a string some 350 victories, Harvey rul 2 to 1 favorite over Dundee.

The strong betting support vey has received is a result of impression he has made on perts while in training. Tall strongly built, with the forea and biceps of a heavyweight an aggressive fighting style, vey has been voted a first fighting man by observers have watched his workouts

Harvey's American inva comes at a time when the mi weight throne is vacant. No many months has Mickey Wa defended his title. Instead h been campaigning among heavyweights.

Dave Shade, veteran New middleweight, clashes with Anderson of Covington, Ky., in ten round semi-final to the vey-Dundee match. Gaston Cadre of France meets Jack ney, Baltimore lightweight, in opening ten.

6 ANSWER CALL

Rev. Roop Preaches on "Coming Home" at U. B. Revival.

Six responses were made to the altar call last night at First United Brethren church when Rev. Carl V. Roop, pastor, preached on "Coming Home." The male chorus of the church sang two songs, "Wandering Child Come Home" and "I've Been Listening."

The Brotherhood of the church, with a membership of 103 men, has voted to attend Sunday school and morning church services and to attend the Sunday night services in a body. New members will be received into the church at both the morning and night services Sunday.

Tonight Rev. Roop will preach "A Living Death." The Fidelis class will attend in a body. No services will be held Saturday night.

READY FOR WORK

Plan Starting State Office Building Foundation Next Week.

By United Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 9—Pouring of concrete for the foundation of the $3,000,000 state office building which is being erected on the river front here will start next week if the weather permits, a representative of the Struck Construction Co. of Louisville, Ky., said today.

The Louisville company has the general contract on its bid of $2,622,000. If the work goes along as scheduled the erection of steel frame will begin on Feb. 16, it was announced.

JIM DUGAN
MARION, OHIO.

MANSFIELD PASTOR IS KIWANIS SPEAKER

Rev. Oscar M. Adam Addresses Luncheon Club on "Dogs and Kids."

An appeal to give all youngsters a chance that will enable them to become better citizens of the future was made by Rev. Oscar M. Adam of the First M. E. church of Mansfield, formerly an instructor in Marion High school, in an address to Marion Kiwanians at the Marion club yesterday.

"Consider life at its roots, give the kids a chance, that the fruits may be more desirable," Rev. Adam told Kiwanians in his talk, "Dogs and Kids."

In developing his subject, Rev. Adam said it was common practice among many to give more attention to the breeding, care and development of good dogs than of good children.

Turning to the Bible for his authority, Rev. Adam declared that the human life was more valuable than any other type of life, and deserved more care in its development.

Many members of organizations which give valuable aid to underprivileged children neglect their own children, Rev. Adam said.

The present prevalence of crime among juveniles and even adults is the outgrowth of improper training of persons as children, and the failure of parents to give child life the opportunity to grow and develop as it should, he said

SENTENCE OF DEATH IN CHAIR CONFIRMED

Higher Court Rules Convicted Canton Slayer Must Die for Murder.

By Brush-Moore Leased Wire.

CANTON, O., Jan. 9—Sentence of death imposed on James Romeo following his conviction of the murder of Charles N. Riblet, a guard for the First National bank here, was upheld unanimously by the court of appeals here today. The court fixed Friday, April 24, as the new execution date.

Charged with participating in a $60,000 holdup which resulted in the death of the former bank guard, Romeo was convicted in common pleas court on a charge of murder in the first degree and sentenced originally to die in the electric chair in Ohio penitentiary last Dec. 29.

Immediately after conviction, attorneys for the convicted slayer instituted error proceedings in the court of appeals, and a continuance of the execution date was granted pending hearing of the appeal before the higher court.

It is probable that Romeo's attorneys will carry the case to the state supreme court in a final effort to save the life of the condemned gunman.

At the time of the robbery, July 16, 1930, Riblet was enroute from the bank to the postoffice, guarding a package of currency which was being carried by a bank messenger. As the two men neared the postoffice, two gunmen held them up. One of the robbers engaged in a pistol duel with Riblet while the other seized the money, jumped into a waiting automobile and sped away. Charles Kish, the actual slayer, was killed.

BRIDGE LUNCHEON HELD

Table honors were awarded Mrs. Thomas Reber, Mrs. Charles O'Brien, Mrs. Charles Bringman, Mrs. Clarence Henige, Mrs. J. A. Probst, Mrs. Charles Ellis, Mrs. George Denman and Mrs. Hayden Raabe.

MAN RELEASED

Stansbery Found Not Guilty of Liquor Charge.

UPPER SANDUSKY, Jan. 9—Judge Earl B. Carter found Willard Stansbery, who was charged with the possession of intoxicating liquor, not guilty. The case was heard in common pleas court Dec. 31 and the decision was made yesterday after the case had been taken under advisement by the judge.

• • •

Lawrence Plott charged with larceny appeared in court Thursday and entered a plea of not guilty. Bond for his appearance was fixed at $100.

KIRK TO SPEAK

Ohio Grange Head to Address Hardin County Group.

KENTON, Jan. 9—Walter F. Kirk of Port Clinton, master of the Ohio Grange, has been obtained as one of two speakers to appear on the program being arranged for the annual meeting and picnic of the Hardin County Farm Bureau and the Hardin Cooperative Livestock Shipping association Jan. 31 in the Hardin county armory.

Many farmers and their families from over the county will take part in the all day meeting

Officers Are Installed at Ladies' Aid Meeting

UPPER SANDUSKY, Jan 9 - The Ladies' Aid society of the St Paul Lutheran church met Thursday afternoon at the church. The following new officers were installed: Mrs. Edward Roszman, president; Mrs. Otto Gottfried, secretary; Mrs. Albert Shambaugh, treasurer. Rev. C. F. Betz had charge of the lesson study. The following entertainment committee was chosen for the coming month. Mrs. John Tschantz, Mrs. Adolph Tschantz, Mrs. Carl Lynn, Mrs. Henry Roth and Mrs. Samuel Ulrich. Refreshments were served.

ARM FRACTURED

UPPER SANDUSKY, Jan. 9—Robert Bartholomew, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bartholomew, of north of the city, fractured the large bone of his left arm above the wrist yesterday noon when he fell while playing on the ice at the Union school building.

CLEVELAND BATTLING EPIDEMIC OF CRIME

Authorities To Arraign Slayer of Patrolman on Murder Charge Today.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 9—While police were engoged in an offensive against one of the worst crime epidemics here in years, authorities planned to arraign John W. Glasscock, charged with first degree murdtr in the slaying of Patrolman James Ryan, on his hospital bed today.

Glasscock, who was wounded as he dropped Ryan in a running gun fight, will be brought to trial in 21 days, the minimum allowed by law, the prosecutor's office announced. He was indicted yesterday, less than 12 hours after Ryan fell, mortally wounded

Patrolman John Cleary, also wounded by Glasscock, remained in a serious condition today.

The death of Albert Burke, 40, an American district telegraph operative, who was shot down by one or two men who smashed a jewelry store window marked the eleventh death in shooting affairs since December 6

Two patrolmen today shot and captured a Negro who had held up a man in the "roaring third" precinct, where robberies have been frequent of late

HELP WANTED
AGENTS AND SALESMEN

A Salesman Wanted

A SALESMAN who has personality, energy, ability and the willingness to seriously devote his time and effort to making money.

WHO WILL consistently and enthusiastically follow the prospective purchasers we furnish him.

WHO WILL contact those of the hundreds of car owners whom we have sold and who live in this territory.

WHO WILL appreciate an organization that is not surpassed by any in its field.

WHO knows that prospective buyers are attracted by a central location and by a day and night servicing station that covers over one-half acre of floor space.

TO THIS man we offer complete training, the last word in selling equipment, a new Chevrolet demonstrator and assistance in closing prospective sales.

IF YOU feel that you measure up to the standards of this organization we will be pleased to talk further with you.

APPLY in person to Mr. C. M. Tropf.

CARRIER ISSUES GAIN SHARPLY

Markets Show Uncertainty for Time, but Rails Aid Recovery.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9—Rails were again used to keep the bull movement in stocks rolling to today's market.

The list showed considerable uncertainty for a time, with liquidation of the chemicals, and profit-taking in steels threatening to carry the list lower. Professional efforts to bid up the motors soon stiffened the market, however, and considerable buoyance developed after midday, as carrier issues were marked up sharply. It was largely a market of special moves, nevertheless.

Such rails as Chicago and Northwestern, Lehigh Valley, Colorado and Southern and Rock Island were sent up 5 or more. Jersey Central, a lightly traded issue, sold at 225, up 31 points. Shares gaining 3 to 4 or more included Baltimore and Ohio, New York Central, Missouri Pacific, New Haven, Wabash, Norfolk & Western, and Erie. Pivotal shares as a whole moved narrowly. U. S. Steel, Bethelhem and Republic eased a little under profit-taking, then stiffened.

The market was encouraged by the remarks of Paul Warburg, made in his annual report as chairman of the Manhattan Co., particularly his statement that prices of many securities have fallen as unreasonably low as they were unjustifably high in 1929. Mr. Warburg gave the financial community something to think about, however, in a severe cense irresponsible and inflationist tactics in banking and finance.

There was no basis in the days' news for the marking up of railroad shares. In fact, General W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania, put a damper on the enthusiasm generated by the eastern consolidation agreement. He said unification could not take effect for four or five years.

White to Personally Deliver First Message

By International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 9 — Announcement that Governor-Elect George White will personally deliver his initial message to the Ohio legislature was made here today. The new governor will address the solons in joint session, in the House chamber, within 24 hours after his induction into office, which takes place Monday.

This announcement was made after Speaker Arthur Hamilton, of the house, paid a social visit to White and inquired as to his plans for transmitting his message to the legislators.

Reports Jewelry Stolen in October Recovered

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9—The Chicago Tribune said today that $15,000 worth of jewelry, stolen from the wife of Mayor William Hale Thompson during a holdup at the entrance of her home last October, had been returned to her.

No information as to how the jewelry was returned was available from police records, the newspaper added.

Samuel Battaglia, accused of holding up Mrs. Thompson's chauffeur at the time the theft was committeed, was acquitted after a jury trial.

UNION TO INSTALL

Plans were made for the installation of officers next Monday night at the meeting of the executive board of Marion Local No. 531, A. F. of M., held last night in their new quarters in the Democratic club rooms in the Marion National Bank building. It was reported that the use of the rooms had been donated to the organization by the club as a courtesy to the musicians of the city and vicinity and the Marion Civic band.

GRAIN PRICES IN DOWNTURN

Good Weather for Corn Movement and Feed Economy Bring Decline.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9—Auspicious weather for corn movement and for economizing of feed led to general corn selling nad material price downturns early today. Wheat also went lower, influenced by Liverpool reports of pressure of offerings from Argentina and Australia. Opening ½ to 1 cent down, corn later continued weak. Wheat started at ¾@⅞ decline to ¼ advance, and subsequently held steady.

Rallies from early declines in corn were promoted by advices that the Nebraska corn situation was summarized as follows: "Omaha 32 cars in 62 out; sales overnight again very light; one of the biggest houses obtained four cars." A week ago, Omaha receipts totaled 118 cars and a year ago 139. The fact that the most readily available surplus corn was in Nebraska lent significance to this showing, and stimulated purchases.

Reports of need of moisture in domestic winter wheat territory tended to tighten wheat values after early setbacks. There was also a lessening of receipts, primary arrivals aggregating 930,000 bushels against 1,424,000 a week ago and 650,000 a year back. Compared with corn, wheat trade lacked volume and variety, and was described as a carbon copy of many days preceding. Oats followed corn. Provisions went lower with hogs.

FIVE FIRES KEEP DEPARTMENT BUSY

Quick Work by Firemen Holds Damage to $48 in Residence Blazes.

Prompt action of city firemen yesterday held fire damage in a series of five fires to $48, reports of Fire Chief T. J. McFarland show today.

Flying sparks lighting on shingle roofs were responsible for three of the fires.

One occurred at the H. DeLong residence at 1216 East Church street yesterday at 3:18 p. m. Firemen of company No. 1 extinguished the flames after $15 damage had been done.

While firemen of company No. 1 were extinguishing a $10 roof fire at the F. M. Schneider residence at 133 West Columbia street, at 1:54 p. m., company No. 2 was called to the J. C. Silverwood residence at 262 Superior street where another $3 roof fire originating in flying sparks was extinguished.

Hot ashes piled against a door at the E. V. Granger residence resulted in fire at 5:14 p. m. yesterday. Company No. 1 made the run.

Firemen in the chief's car extinguished an automobile fire originating in the flooded carburetor of a Studebaker sedan at High and Columbia streets yesterday at 5:10 p. m. The car was owned by C. F. Hemlich. Damage was estimated at $20

Predict Divided Report from Wickersham Board

Majority Agreement Expected Only Upon Less Controversial Prohibition Issues; Due To Be Filed with Hoover Soon.

By International News Service

WASHINGTON Jan. 9 — A [illegible] with the majority [illegible] upon the less [illegible] of prohibition which the [illegible] enforcement commission will submit on President [illegible] in the near future [illegible] all indications [illegible]

[illegible] phase of the commission's [illegible] about completed [illegible] of laborious effort [illegible] nothing behind closed doors [illegible] tion in this case does [illegible] mean agreement [illegible] means, instead, [illegible] have gone [illegible] believe they can [illegible] toward reconciliation of [illegible] views.

No Definite Line

[illegible] nor the drys [illegible] much real [illegible] the commission's [illegible] prohibition according [illegible] in seemingly reliable [illegible]

[illegible] probably will [illegible] than the wets, for it [illegible] the commission will [illegible] any drastic modification [illegible] law, either affecting the 18th amendment or the Volstead act. On the contrary will recommend further trial of both [illegible] corrective suggestions as the commissioners have been able to agree upon. In this sense the report is described as preponderantly dry. What comfort the wets can extract from it will have to be found in the recommendations for the correction of abuses under the existing system.

Heretofore, it has been understood President Hoover would not immediately transmit the report to congress for fear of kicking up such a ruckus as to imperil the appropriation bills and perhaps force an extra session of the new 72nd congress.

Expect Prompt Transmission

There has been a change in White House policy in this respect, however, for it is now stated authoritatively that Mr. Hoover plans to keep the report on his desk only long enough to read it and prepare a covering message for its submission to congress.

Three avenues are open to Mr. Hoover in his communication of the report to congress: A message of approval of the findings of the majority; a message of disapproval of the findings; merely a formal letter of transmittal, taking no position, but merely forwarding the findings for the information of congress.

The expectation is that the President will approve the findings of the majority and make their views his views, although there is, of course, no assurance of that.

British Princes Prepare for "Sales Trip" to South America

By United Press

LONDON Jan. 9—The Prince of Wales will depart for South America within the next 10 days to sell British goods and British friendship.

The heir to the throne and his brother Prince George, as the world's most widely known "salesmen" will travel more than 20,000 miles and visit at least 10 countries on their five months' journey for the purpose of aiding in efforts to regain export markets of Latin America and to reestablish Great Britain as the leading trade nation of the world.

The climax of the journey will be reached when the Prince of Wales opens the British Empire Trade exhibition at Buenos Aires on March 14. The prince will spend two or three weeks in Argentina, two weeks in Brazil and 10 days in Chile. His visits to other countries will be for shorter periods.

Great Britain is in a critical trade depression, according to many authorities, and little has been said about the "cementing of international relations," in connection with the journey of the two sons of the royal Windsor family, as compared to the stress placed on South American markets.

The British drive to capture the southern markets is well under way and the princes are planning to emphasize to the Latin-American countries the workmanship and quality of British products.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, Jan 10

CONFLICTING conditions are to be expected from the chain of "mixed influences" noted among the planetary configurations. Matters will be busy enough, calling for a great degree of energy and application, especially in the launching of new projects. But there are hints of sudden and disorganizing changes, with rearranged plans, postponements and opposition. Speculation is hazardous. It may be difficult to attain the ends, but personal relations will prove compensatory.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a difficult year, in which much depends on their own enterprise and indomitable resistance to many kinds of opposition and hazard. There may be sudden changes or travel, upset plans and difficulty in launching new projects. Speculation would be unprofitable and dealings with strangers perilous. Sign papers cautiously. Personal affiliations may be pleasant and interesting. A child born on this day should be brilliant, versatile and energetic, with capabilities making for success in many channels, but it may be radical, visionary in its ideals, and disposed to change and adventure.

PROPOSE TO CHANGE OHIO DIVORCE LAWS

Cleveland Judge Makes Known Plans for Seeking Legislation.

By United Press

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 9—Legislation providing for radical changes in Ohio's divorce laws has been prepared and will be ready for presentation in the general assembly soon, according to Common Pleas Judge A. J. Pearson.

Pearson, divorce court judge in 1930 and sponsor of the movement for amending divorce statutes, said Senator Joseph N. Ackerman will introduce the new measures.

Major changes proposed include: Marriage licenses cannot be issued until five days after application for license is made; a daily fee of $2 shall be paid to families in cases where husbands are in jail for failure to support their children; one year's residence in the county and three years' residence in the state shall be required before divorce petitions are filed. At present the residential requirements are one month in the county and a year in the state.

TALKS ON SAMSON

Marion Attorney Appears at Meeting of Meeker P.-T. A.

MEEKER, Ja. 9—Attorney Sylvester Larkin of Marion addressed the Meeker Parent-Teachers association Thursday night on "Samson, Up to Date." County Superintendent C. B. Rayburn spoke on the taxing situation in the state.

The meeting opened with community singing. Irvine Hoszman, Mrs. Merle Kennedy and Mrs. Homer Barnthouse sang. Margaret Hennigh and Ruth Fogle gave readings.

The committee in charge of the program was Mrs. William E. Smith, Mrs. Ernest Fogle, Mrs. Harley Foust and Miss Nathalia Holliger. The social committee was Mrs. Robert Carpenter, Mrs. James King and Mrs. Edna Cayton.

• • •

Henry Coon was elected president of the Meeker board of education at the organization meeting Monday. Earl Miller was elected vice president, and H. E. Wiley, clerk. Dr. F. F. Field and A. A. Parish complete the board.

• • •

The presetation of "Smiling Bob" Briggs, impersonator and versatile entertainer, next Thursday will be the second number on the Meeker lecture course. The other numbers are: Soren Sorensen, lecturer, Feb. 10; Larcher Duo, a musical and dramatic company, March 7.

Richwood Student Wins Honor at O. S. U.

RICHWOOD, Jan. 9—Miss Jane McAllister, student at Ohio State university, has received an honor academic record in the first quarter in the university. Miss McAllister is a freshman, and is one of 90 out of a class of 828 to receive the honor record. She is the daughter of Attorney and Mrs. F. A. McAllister.

It seems as if the rungs in some people's ladders of success are farther apart.

Menace of Alien Criminals.

It is a significant fact that two men prominent in the public eye should on succeeding days express themselves publicly on the desirability of the deportation of alien criminals. It shows that Americans of prominance are at last giving consideration to the menace which the presence of such undesirables carries, a menace long held far too lightly.

Tuesday's papers carried the story of a letter addressed by Secretary of Labor Doak to the United States senate urging the strengthening of the law relative to the deportation of the "aliens who are affiliated with organizations which advocate the overthrow of the government of the United States," and the day following the secretary was commended by former President Coolidge as being right in his advocacy of the strengthening of the law.

Secretary Doak, in his letter in reply to a request for information, told the senate that about 400,000 aliens are illegally residing in the United States and that 100,000 of them are deportable under the immigration act, and in response to a request for suggestions as to changes in the present law to facilitate deportation of undesirables, he recommended to the senate that the secretary of labor be authorized to delegate authority to field officers designated by him to sign warrants; that there be clarification with respect to the burden of proof upon an alien in a deportation proceeding, setting out that at present the defendant must prove only the lawfulness of his entry, and he urged legislation to make as ground for deportation crimes other than moral turpitude, such as a number of prison sentences.

In connection with his suggestion for the clarification of the law with respect to the burden of proof, the secretary recommended the following amendment to the present law:

"In any proceeding in which an alien is charged with being subject to deportation upon a specified ground under the immigration laws and such charge is supported by prima facie evidence adduced at the hearing accorded the alien on such charge, the charge shall be held to be established unless the alien shall establish by affirmative proof that the charge is not true."

Decent and law-abiding aliens in this country, and such are the overwhelming majority of the aliens over here, could have no ground for complaint against such a law to drive out the criminal undesirables from whose activities they as well as American citizens suffer. In fact, such a law should be welcomed by them as one clarifying the entire alien situation.

But even though objection should be raised, it should not be considered, for, when all is said, this is our country, and we and we alone have the right to decide, and we and we alone should decide, who may come to us to take up residence here and what laws shall be passed for our own regulation and the regulation of aliens within our boundaries.

Packers' Consent Decree Modified.

The modification of what is known as the "consent" decree against five groups of packers by Justice Jennings Bailey, of the District of Columbia supreme court, will carry surprise to those who assumed that the action of the United States supreme court in upholding the decree was final. If the modification of the decree by Justice Bailey stands, it will be widespreading in its effect and thus in its importance.

Under the decree of the District of Columbia jurist, the five groups of packers—Swift & Company, Morris & Company, Armour & Company, Wilson & Company and the Cudahy Packing company—were not given the right to retail foods or products unrelated to the packing industry, as they prayed, but they were given the right to wholesale fish, vegetables, fruit, flour, sugar, rice, cereals, grain, grape juice and various miscellaneous articles including fresh milk and cream.

Justice Bailey held that the evidence not only showed that there was no monopoly in the meat-packing business, but it also showed that none of the corporations parties to the matter was of sufficient size to constitute a monopoly. He did hold, however, to the opinion that it would not be the course of wisdom to modify that part of the consent decree, entered into back in 1920, prohibiting the packers from owning or acquiring any interest in stockyards, terminal railroads or market newspapers.

It was the contention of the packers that the increasing competition of the chain stores made it necessary for them to sell their products at retail. The court refused to concede this, holding that "the control of the defendants of the great amounts of interstate commerce in meat and other articles from the producer to the consumer probably would result in the almost complete annihilation of the independent grocer, already a minority in number."

Government counsel during the argument of the matter, in which the National Wholesale Grocers' association and the American Wholesale Grocers' association intervened in opposition to modification, contended that Justice Bailey had no authority to modify the decree, but the opinion rendered held that the government had, in effect, acknowledged the jurisdiction of the District supreme court.

While it is not hard to understand the feeling of the wholesale grocers which impelled them to intervene against modification, for they very naturally would see menace in modification, it is no harder to see in it menace to the great chain organizations in a situation where whole trains of the cars of the packers will be transporting over the railroads many lines of articles they are transporting over the country's highways in their mighty fleets of trucks. Still, come to think of it, what effect the decision may have on the chain stores is of little interest to the wholesalers who intervened, when any menace the decision proves to the chain stores will prove an equal, if not greater, menace to them.

The railroads are urging government control of the bus lines to put the two methods of transportation on an equal basis, or under an equal handicap, whichever way the reader cares to view the thing.

Beginning next Monday, corn will displace wheat, which has reigned for eighty-four years, as the leader in the Chicago grain market. It's odd, come to think of it, that corn was unable to dethrone the old king till it had the assistance of ten years of prohibition.

So closely divided politically will be the next congress, that the lame ducks will stand a far better chance at appointive positions of allure than those elected at last November's battle of the ballots. With 218 Republicans and 216 Democrats in the membership, a Republican member has just about as much chance of selection for a high appointive position as a snowball in that locality claimed by the late Robert T. Ingersoll to be non-existent.

The Vatican is to have its own money, using the Italian gold lire as the unit of value, silver, nickel and copper coins being limited to 100,000,000 lire, slightly more than $3,000,000, and the volume of the old being left to the discretion of the governor of the Vatican City. Both Italian and Vatican issues will be legal tender in the Vatican State and Italy alike. Just as an off-hand guess, here is a medium of exchange which isn't liable to suffer any fluctuations of consequence no matter which way the financial market may move.

A KILKENNY CAT SESSION.

The old jingle informs us that "Christmas comes but once a year, when it comes it brings good cheer." In a general way this is quite true. But not always. It sometimes works out reversely. Congress, for example.

When adjournment was taken for the holidays harmony prevailed. Cooperation had accomplished important results, quite unusual in so brief a period. The administration's unemployment measures had been passed. Appropriation bills had been given a good start. The outlook for a short session, at the close of which adjournment could be taken until December, was bright. Peace and good will, speaking relatively, of course, filled the air.

And then Christmas came, and went. And it seems to have brought anything but good cheer. Congress reassembles in the midst of a conflict, or rather in the midst of conflicts, that promise to make the session one of continuous riot, with an increasing probability that essential appropriation bills will not be passed by the 4th of March, making necessary an extra session of congress. There is a strong desire on the part of the administration and the great majority in congress to avoid an extra session, and unquestionably this is the desire of the country. But while administration leaders are still saying it can be done, the difficulties in the way of it have been greatly increased during the Christmas holidays.

There is, for one thing, the row between Norris and Lucas which has brought to the fore the very large and important question of the relation of Norris and other insurgents to the Republican party. It has aroused a great deal of feeling on both sides, and there can be no doubt that discussion of it will consume many hours in the senate, without contributing a mite to legislation. Another thing is another row, raised by the dismissal of some of the employes of the power board by the new members of that board. This will supply abundant excuse for prolonged ranting and raving over the "power trust." A third thing is the action of President Hoover in promoting the eastern railroad consolidation, condemned by Senator Couzens and denounced by Senator Brookhart. The latter says that unless congress passes the Couzens bill to suspend railroad consolidation he will do all he can to force an extra session to obtain an investigation. To these will soon be added the talking material to be supplied by a report of the Wickersham committee, not to mention the sentiment being developed for cash payment of World war soldier certificates. There are also the measures in which the insurgents are particularly interested, including the Norris plan for Muscle Shoals.

It is to be seen from all this that the source of trouble is the insurgent group. It has been the source of most of the trouble in congress for the past eight or ten years. It keeps the senate continuously in hot water, and makes intelligent legislation exceedingly difficult. If an extra session is made necessary, it will be the work of this little group of less than a dozen men.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

When Lincoln and Chase Broke.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

For many months there had been strained relations between Mr. Lincoln, the President, and his secretary of the treasury, Mr. Chase. Secretary Chase and Secretary Seward had both once tendered their resignations, but had been induced to withdraw them. With Secretary Seward the friction was past, and he went loyally about his duties.

Earlier Secretary Chase had thoughts of succeeding Mr. Lincoln at the end of his first term, but as the time for action drew near, a member of the Ohio legislature offered a resolution pledging the state to Mr. Lincoln, and it being adopted, Secretary Chase at once made a public statement to the effect that he would not be a candidate for the presidential nomination.

The situation, growing tender, the relations between the president and the secretary of the treasury reached a breaking point, in midsummer of 1864, and it is interesting to note the direct language the two men used in terminating their official alliance. It was on June 29 that Mr. Chase wrote this curt and yet respectful note to his chief: "I respectfully resign the office of secretary of the treasury, which I have had the honor to hold under your appointment."

Mr. Lincoln's letter accepting the resignation bears the same date; so it appears that it did not take him long to make up his mind about the matter. It read: "Your resignation of the office of the secretary of the treasury, sent me yesterday, is accepted. Of all I have said in commendation of your ability and fidelity, I have nothing to unsay; and yet you and I have reached a point of mutual embarrassment in our official relations which, it seems to me, can not be overcome or longer sustained consistently through and with public service."

Here is evidence of the magnanimity of Lincoln. In spite of his failure to get along with Mr. Chase, he still held his ability in high regard, and a little later, when the death of Chief Justice Roger B. Taney left that high office vacant, he promptly offered it to Chase.

Skin Indicates Health.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A great deal has been written concerning the various diseases of the skin, but very little in regard to their prevention. Yet you agree with me, of course, that prevention continues to be far more important than cure.

Skin disorders are commonly regarded as due to some constitutional defect or infection. But, as a matter of fact, they are frequently caused by neglect in hygiene.

The skin serves many purposes. Primarily it is a covering to protect the structures lying beneath it.

Likewise, the skin offers a means of escape for certain waste products. This is accomplished by sweating.

The skin contains many small nerve endings. These are watchful stations ready to send messages to the brain. When pain is experienced, caused by a skin injury, these nerves convey the word and instantly the body reacts in such manner that the suffering skin is removed from the source of irritation.

The skin serves as a sort of mechanism to regulate the temperature of the body. This is an important function of this structure.

Since the skin plays an important role in the elimination of certain waste products, it is important to maintain it in as healthy a condition as possible. These waste materials are contained in the sweat given off by the body. When the sweat dries on the body, these waste materials are left there.

In addition, we must consider the dust and dirt accumulate on the skin. If the waste and dirt are not removed the pores of the skin become choked. Then the skin can no longer help in protecting the body.

It is imperative that the skin be cleansed every day. Daily warm baths are the most satisfactory of the cleansing processes.

In addition to the usual hygienic measures, the skin should at all times be treated with great respect. If it is burned, adequate care and attention should be given.

Moles and other birthmarks should not be trifled with or bruised. Nor should they be treated without the proper supervision of a physician. Some of these so-called harmless birthmarks, if irritated, may develop into cancer. Never pick at the skin without first cleansing the nails and using suitable antiseptic precautions.

Many of the common ailments of the skin are really forms of inflammation. Every such case is spoken of as a "dermatitis." Most attacks of dermatitis are stubborn in nature and require long and tedious treatment.

It is not uncommon for people to tire of going to a physician because they do not think they are improving. The next thing they do is to try all the patent salves that are advertised. This is a foolish practice and often dangerous. If your physician, who is truly interested in you, is having difficulty in finding a cure, surely a sealed jar is unlikely to help.

Many skin diseases, such as "eczema," "pellagra" and "urticaria," are due to diet deficiencies. With proper feeding the skin rapidly returns to normal. Quite frequently we see skin rashes which are due to the eating of certain foods or medicines, or to exposure to certain plants.

We are prone to judge people by their appearance. There can be no doubt that a clean, clear skin is a real asset.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

THANKS. Q—What causes difficult breathing?

2—Can you advise something for the nerves?

A—This may be due to heart trouble, to some obstruction in the nose or throat, etc., or it may be due to a nervous condition. Examination will not only help to get at the source, but will also help to determine the necessary treatment.

2—Try to get at the underlying cause first of all. Improve your health and the nerves will benefit.

* * *

I.M. Q—Are reducing salts harmless?

A—They are apt to prove weakening.

* * *

S. C. Q—What is the cause of dreaming? I do not make a habit of eating before retiring.

A—Perhaps you are nervous. This is often a cause. Try to build up your general health and overcome your nervousness.—Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Hendrik A. Lorentz.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

One of the most creative contributors in the field of modern physics and relativity, to whom less than his due has been accorded, is Hendrik Antoon Lorentz, of Holland. This leader among the physicists of Holland, and only recently deceased, was born at Arnheim, July 18, 1853.

He was educated at the University of Leyden, and after graduation taught for six years in the night school of his native town. So brilliant was his work and so rapid his development, that at the early age of twenty-five he was appointed professor of mathematical physics at his alma mater. At the time of his death he was recognized universally as one of the most distinguished of contemporary physicists.

In 1906, his lectures at Columbia university on the electron theory attracted wide attention, these lectures being later published in book form. In 1907 and again in 1909 he directed the Dutch scientific expeditions to New Guinea. Notable honors have been paid him, but he is not fully recognized, it appears, as a forerunner and almost joint author with Einstein of the special theory of relativity.

On December 11, 1900, the scientific world celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his doctorate. In 1902 the Academy of Sciences at Stockholm divided the Nobel prize for physics between Lorentz and one of his gifted pupils, Zeeman. In 1912-13 he delivered a course of lectures in mathematical physics in the College de France, Paris.

In his study of the electron, Lorentz made epochal contributions. He worked out a series of equations of the first importance connecting the times, distances and velocities of electrons in uniform motion with respect to each other.

Although his interpretation of these equations differed from that given them by Einstein, they subsequently formed the basis of Einstein's first or special theory of relativity. Indeed, these very equations now bear the name in his honor, of the Lorentz transformation. They constitute the very foundation of the theory of relativity.

Lorentz anticipated Niels Bohr in studying the movements of the electrons inside the atom. The atom is a littel solar system of its own; but the difference which exists between the dimensions of an atom and an electron is much greater than that which exists between the size of the sun and the earth.

Sir Oliver Lodge has stated that if an electron were enlarged so as to be the size of a point or 0.25 mm. in diameter, then by the same scale an atom would be magnified to form a building sixty meters long, thirty wide and fifteen high.

According to the theory of Lorentz, the complexity of the light emitted by a body is due to the complexity of the atom. Each electron constitutes an excitator similar to the excitators of wireless telegraphy, and sends out waves only differing from the electromagnetic waves emitted, for instance, by the Eiffel tower in the extreme shortness of their length.

Zeeman, the pupil of Lorentz, confirmed by experiment the latter's theory that light emitted by a body is modified under the action of a strong electric field. The work of Lorentz, supported by Zeeman, has doubled the strength of spectrum analysis for investigating radiation and the properties of atoms.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Jan. 9—Thoughts while strolling. The White Way's nightly miracle of light. And the pink glow that chiffons the heavens. What became of the Swiss bell ringers? One of George Arliss' eyes seems stretched out of kilter from monocle wearing.

Zoe Akins, a Humansville, Missouri, girl who made good in the city. Simile: As prominent as a newly-shaved upper lip. A "Frankie and Johnny" lunchroom. Folding beds, $5.95. Texas Guinan never carries money. A custom with many these days. No matter how long an actor has been jobless he can sport a fur coat.

H. L. Mencken's short neck. Who remembers when Willie and Eugene Howard were programmed as "The Traveling Salesman and the Messenger Boy?" Sign: "We only seek a dot of your patronage." Here are three * * * Never hear much of Maeterlinck any more. Aversion: Jokes about Austins.

Theater box offices are still rather snoopy. And they helped kill the theater. Along with those manufactured dancers sent out in sets and with property smiles. Alexander Woollcott has a paunch. Sterling Holloway is a Sunny Jim come to life. Libby Holman looks like Joan Lowell.

The serene, statuesque Joan Hoyt. And the wide-eyed Nida Westman who seems eternally bewildered by her mix-up with the world. I'd like to see Ethel Barrymore, shucked of her emotional wrappings, just being herself some time. The blurred Broadway masses stumbling along.

One of those tweedy boys with balcony teeth: "I'm hopping over to Yokohama next week!" That's ignoring distance. It strikes me Californians are the greatest of all travelers. That is, among Americans. Satin-slippered ladies in evening wraps, who park limousines and walk to the play smoking.

Cole Porter's latest musical show tunes failed to click. Pseudo twins on the make—a new racket in gold-digging. And what's become of Harry Richman? Those leather-lunged barkers in front of movie houses. Bellowing like beasts in heat. Move over: I have the apple rights on this corner!

I am told of a middle-aged couple who, loving life, become depressed at times over advancing years. When the strain is too great, they don evening clothes and dine at the sedate Murray Hill. "After that," they declare, "we rush home sucking lollipops, put on rompers and play with blocks."

The Delights of Florence.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Florence lies in the valley through which the Arno river streams its leisurely way to the sea. It gets its name from the prodigal quantity of flowers that bloom and blossom in the neighboring country.

Whether one stays in Florence a day or a year, he takes away from the rich old city a love for it and for all that it has meant to the worlds of religion, art, politics, commerce and literature.

Walking the streets of Florence is like reliving history. In the Bargello, for instance, you come upon Benvenuto Cellini's celebrated "Perseus with the Head of Medusa," with something of shock. You have looked at reproductions of this priceless masterpiece in scores of books and seeing the original bit of sculpture is like meeting an old friend.

Or your stroll to the Piazza Santa Trinita where Dante, Leonardo da Vinci and Michel Angelo once lingered observing the life of their day. Or to Piazza Savoronola, where stands a statue to the memory of the great reformer of the Renaissance for whom that notorious profligate, Lorenzo de Medici, ruler of Florence, sent when he wished to be confessed on his death bed.

Or to Piazza della Signorina, where Savaronola was burned to death. No matter what street you choose, you will find the atmosphere rich with memories of the great men who lived and died in the illustrious city.

Florence has preserved all that once made her famous, but in the past she has not forgotten the present. Dreamers of all nations migrate there today as they always have. Florence is least Italian of all the cities of that sunny country.

She belongs to the entire world by virtue of what she is as well as what she has been. All who love travel should go there, for there is not a city in all the world quite like the "City of Flowers."

THE FACT is revealed that five of Italy's finest fliers were killed, and three others injured on the marvelous "formation flight" across the Atlantic to Brazil. The news was concealed at first, in order not to spoil the joy of Italy at the great achievement.

There is sorrow now, but the glory of the achievement is not diminished, but made greater by the courage of the survivors, continuing their flight and completing it successfully, as planned, in military formation, according to orders.

the water is taken has varied but little in the last year and at some periods of the drouth the wells' levels were often higher than in previous summers, he points out.

The half-inch rain which fell generally over the state early this week helped solve the immediate water shortage in some communities, according to a United Press story from Columbus. The rain however, did little good in many parts of the state due to the frozen soil which caused the water to flow rapidly to the streams without sinking into the ground.

Rivers and creeks in the county are standing at the lowest levels in years and in many cases large wells and cisterns are empty.

While no figures for the county itself are available, rainfall throughout the state was only 71 per cent of normal, according to the federal weather bureau. The rain shortage continues, the bureau reported through the Associated Press, in the area bounded by the Appalachian mountains on the east, the Ohio river on the south and the Mississippi river to the west.

WEATHER THREATENS TO CONCLUDE FLIGHT

Girl Fliers Manage To Ride Out Second Storm of Week.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9—Endurance flying has proved no lark for Bobbie Trott and Edna May Cooper.

Nevertheless the girls and their plane, the Lady Rolph, named in honor of the first lady of California, showed no signs of weakening today as they passed the 106-hour mark at 12:30 a. m.

The perseverance of the fliers, who for more than 33 hours were dogged by a rainstorm, apparently was rewarded for at midnight the rain ceased and the clouds began to disperse.

The storm was the second since they took off at 2:20 p. m., Sunday. They rode out the first Tuesday night.

The weather and a series of mishaps, however, caused Bobbie and Edna to lower their sights. When they began the venture they had them trained on the 645-hour flight record set by Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, at St. Louis. Last night, while the storm was at its height, they dropped a note saying, "We want to beat the Question Mark."

The Question Mark, a tri-motored army plane manned by five of the army's best, set the first refueling flight record of 150 hours here two years ago. The promise of clear skies and a warm sun today may revive the ambition.

NEW FEDERAL PROBE OF SHORTAGE LOOMS

U. S. Attorney Says Casey Will Probably Be Called Before Next Session of Cleveland Grand Jury.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 9—Further investigation in the $223,049.30 shortage at the Citizens' National Bank at Galion, O., by the federal grand jury was indicated here today with the announcement of United States District Attorney Wilfred J. Mahon that James E. Casey, convicted former president of the bank, probably will be called to testify before that body when it meets next week.

Whether the government will ask for further indictments in the Galion bank case will depend on the nature of the evidence which Casey may present, Mahon said.

Mahon would not state definitely that Casey would be brought before the grand jury, but intimated that his appearance before the body to present the evidence he claims to have in connection with the huge shortage, was practically certain

Inasmuch as sessions of the investigating body are held in secrecy, what Casey may tell the jurors probably will be unknown to the public.

To Repeat Charges

It is believed, however, that his testimony, if he is called before the jury, will be in harmony with the charges he made before Judge Samuel H. West when he entered a plea of guilty to charges resulting from the bank's deficit.

Through his attorney, M. W. Spear of Cleveland, Casey charged that four of the directors of the bank verbally authorized Casey's stock market speculations and his false reports to the U. S. comptroller of currency.

Spear made the charges for Casey when the attorney asked for leniency of sentence. Casey pleaded guilty to falsification of reports and falsification of bank records, charges which were contained in three federal indictments.

Knew of Plunge, Charge

Spear told Judge West that three members of the finance committee of the board of directors and another director met with Casey early last year and decided to invest in the stock market in an effort to recover losses sustained by the institution through depreciation of securities and real estate.

Casey was told to make the investments, Spear declared, and to cover up the speculations, the former banker was to make false reports to the comptroller.

In the indictments returned against Casey by the November grand jury, he was charged with using the bank's funds to purchase stocks on margin in accounts carried with Vercoe & Co., Mansfield brokerage house, and Otis & Co. of Cleveland.

MRS. SCOTT HARVEY CLAIMED BY DEATH

Well-Known Marion Woman Dies After Illness of Six Months.

Mrs. Effie Charlotte Harvey, 71, last member of two of the oldest families in Marion and Wyandot counties, and well-known in club work in Marion, died today at 1:35 a. m. at her home at 396 East Church street. She had been ill for six months, suffering from complications.

She was a member of Captain William Hendricks Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, the Advance club and Trinity Baptist church.

Mrs. Harvey was preceded in death by her husband, W. Scott Harvey, in November, 1929. Their son Clifford Harvey, has been dead for a number of years.

She was the daughter of Abram and Mary Jane Eckelberry Brown, and was born Jan. 12, 1860, in Wyandot county. Her marriage to Mr. Harvey took place there Dec. 5, 1888.

Relatives of Mrs. Harvey have requested that flowers be omitted. Funeral services will be held Monday, at 2 p. m. at the Harvey home, with Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor of Trinity church, officiating. Interment will be made in Marion cemetery.

Friends may view the body tonight and until Sunday noon, at the Schaffner-Queen funeral home on East Center street. After that time, and until funeral time, the body may be viewed at the Harvey home.

Because the moon is slowly approaching the earth a Harvard University astronomer believes that after about 50,000,000 centuries it may be broken up to form rings like Saturn's.

DANDRUFF

A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Adv.

Arthur Hand Freed of Complicity in Galion Bank Robbery

COURT THROWS OUT CHARGES

Brother of Convicted Bandit Wins Fight with Third Trial Approaching.

By The Associated Press.

BUCYRUS, O., Jan. 9—Arthur Hand of Toledo was freed today of any complicity in the $155,000 robbery of the Commercial Savings bank at Galion for which his brother, Wilbur Hand, notorious bond-jumper, was sent to Ohio penitentiary.

Arthur Hand had been tried two times and in each instance the jury disagreed. He was scheduled to go on trial for the third time Monday but a motion to nolle the indictment against him was sustained today by Common Pleas Judge J. W. Wright.

The motion was filed last night by Attorney Andrew Leby of Toledo, Hands' counsel, on the ground that the prosecutor had permitted four terms of court to elapse before starting the third trial.

The robbery occurred in 1927. Wilbur Hand was convicted in 1928 and it was during his trial that Arthur was arrested. Wilbur jumped his bond, was captured in Washington, escaped jail there and was recaptured in Chicago. He was sent to the penitentiary last July.

Harry Zillick also is serving a penitentiary term of 25 years for the robbery. Three other members of the bandit gang are still at large.

TENSION HIGH IN CONGRESS

Extra Session Threat and Slow Progress Worrying Legislature.

NIGHT SESSION LIKELY

Demands for Unemployment and Drouth Relief Come from Constituents.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—Anxiety pervaded congress today as members considered the slow progress of legislation

To the desire held by administration supporters and numerous opponents for avoidance of an extra session was added the pressure of an avalanche of telegrams from the home districts urging action to aid those hit by unemployment and drouth.

In the senate the leaders were on the verge of prescribing night sessions as a cure for the condition that has impeded passage of necessary bills. The house situation was more complex. Much of the routine legislation has been getting through, but the important appropriation for drouth loans has been forced to a standstill by demands for a vote on the $15,000,000 food loan provision which the senate tacked on to $45,000,000 appropriations for fertilizer and seed loans.

For four days the senate has debated a resolution to reconsider the nominations of three power commissioners. Some of President Hoover's supporters say he will not send back the names even if the senate demands them, but sponsors of the resolution insist they will pass it anyhow. Senator McNary of Oregan, assistant Republican leader, informed his colleagues yesterday he was ready to ask for three night sessions each week. Little more than seven weeks of this session remain and there are about 15 major bills on the calendar.

The house has passed a number of appropriation bills and, while not debating drouth conditions, is working on war department supply bill.

Plans for consideration in the house of Muscle Shoals legislation were being made with considerable uncertainty over the result.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN CONGRESS

SENATE

Friday, continue debate on motion to reconsider nominations of three power commissioners; military affairs committee takes up miscellaneous bills.

Thursday: Democratic senators renewed demands for reconsideration of nominations of power commissions; naval affairs committee began study of naval construction bill; government officials disagreed over unified border patrol bill in testimony before commerce committee

HOUSE

Friday: continues consideration of war department supply bill; flood control committee considers pending bills.

Thursday: Representative LaGuardia for the third time blocked action on drouth bill because it makes no provisions for needy in cities; passed Stobbs bill to relieve petty offenders from stringent penalties of Jones prohibition law. Representative Tilson, Republican leader, predicted house would reject Muscle Shoals compromise measure.

Kroger Company Plans Enlargement of Plants

By United Press.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 9—The Kroger Grocery & Baking company today announced plans for the expenditure of $2,000,000 in enlarging its stores and plants throughout the country.

Fannie Brice Is Featured Star On Nestle Bill

FROM her current Broadway success "Sweet and Low" comes Fannie Brice, America's favorite comedienne, to be guest artist of the Nestle program with Nat Brusiloff's orchestra Friday from 8 to 8:30 p. m., over station WJZ and a large NBC network.

One of her songs, "Overnight," comes from this musical show, while her other two melodies have long been associated with her career. Both are old favorites. They are "Second Hand Rose," and the classic "My Man."

Fannie Brice, a member of the band of famous entertainers from New York's East Side, had been billed as a comedienne with Ziegfeld shows for a long time before audiences learned that she was a fine dramatic actress as well. They discovered this the night when she introduced "My Man" to Broadway.

WINS FAME IN EUROPE

Mary Lee, of Oklahoma City, finds England and Europe like her dancing. Mary, only 17, was born in an Indian tent.

• • •

By The Associated Press.

LONDON—Little Mary Lee started life in an Indian tent, born there.

Which is quite a way from the footlights behind which she now hopes to spend most of her life.

Dancing in London she has gotten a "big hand"—and she taught herself.

"My family," she explained, "is partly Indian and father used to make a living by weaving willow baskets. I used to take these around and sell them. I'd learned a few dances, as any kid will, and when people bought my baskets I'd dance for them, too. They liked it and so did I."

Through amateur shows in Oklahoma City, her home town, she got a chance at the real thing, and after appearing in Chicago and New York came on to London.

She's danced in Berlin, Paris, Ostend, Rome, Manchester and now is booked for the Riviera.

She plans to come home this winter, though, and study dancing in earnest.

All the nations now have high tariffs and where has prosperity fled?

ELECTION HELD

Green Camp Young People's Class Meets at Ruth Home.

GREEN CAMP, Jan. 9—The Young People's class of the Reformed church held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Ruth west of town. Clifford Smith had charge of the business meeting. Edward Ruth had charge of devotionals. Election of officers for the coming year was held. They are as follows: Teacher, Mrs. Mabel Bricker; assistant teacher, Milton Ruth; president, Clifford Smith; secretary and treasurer, Virginia Lauer. Guests of the class were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Flach, Mildred Bodley, David Rizor of LaRue, William Coffee and Opal Johnson of Marion.
